The Beauty of Hunting

Hunting may not seem to be an act of killing, or it might not. But something important happens before. It is the slow motion waiting in a state of heightened awareness and observation with one's surroundings, a way of being alive in the world that teaches us subtle adjustments of movement, posture, posture, breath, handling, eye ball motion, etc., always being aware for the possibility of an animal being out there.

THE "CROOKED" SPORTSMAN

A definition of sportsman according to Webster's dictionary: a person who participates in outdoor activities like hunting and fishing; a person who participates in sports.
